

Richard Kane, Vice President of Westhills Co., Builders has been awarded the CGP (Certified Green Professional) designation by the NAHB (National Association of Home Builders). The designation recognizes home builders and other industry professionals who incorporate “green” building practices – environmentally responsible practices – into the homes they build. Recipients must complete the required coursework and have a minimum of two years of building experience.

“I’m excited to be awarded this designation by the NAHB. Westhills Company has long been recognized as a leader locally and statewide for green building since 1985 when Carl Kerby, President of Westhills Company, was recognized by Home Builders Association of Virginia’s Energy Committee for outstanding energy-efficient homes. This designation recognizes our long-standing commitment to green building practices on a National Level. I’m quite honored,” Kane said.

In addition to the Certified Green Professional, designation, Kane also holds CRS (Certified Residential Specialist), SRES (Senior Real Estate Specialist) and GRI (Graduate of the REALTORS Institute) designations from the National Association of REALTORS®. He serves as Vice President-Broker of Westhills Company’s sister company Westhills, Ltd. REALTORS®.
